DALE CORMAN TO RETIRE AS EXECUTIVE CHAIRMAN OF WESTERN COPPER AND GOLD

VANCOUVER, B.C. Western Copper and Gold Corporation (“Western” or the “Company”) (TSX: WRN; NYSE American: WRN) announces that Dale Corman, Founder of Western Copper and Gold and Executive Chairman of the Company’s Board of Directors, has informed the Board that he will retire as of June 30, 2021.

The Board has appointed Ken Williamson to act as Interim Chairman, and the Board has begun the process of finding a permanent replacement for Mr. Corman. Mr. Williamson has been a director of Western since 2019. He has over 40 years of experience in natural resources and investment banking, where his focus has been on capital markets and mergers and acquisitions. Mr. Williamson is a member of the Professional Engineers of Ontario.

Francis Dale Corman, who grew up in the Niagara Peninsula of Ontario, received a B.S. in geology in 1961 from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, New York, and obtained Professional Engineer status in Ontario in 1972. Mr. Corman worked as a mining analyst and investment banker in the early 1960s, until 1968 when he joined the Harbinson Mining Group as a senior officer. Mr. Corman was involved in the discovery and development of the Durham antimony mine in New Brunswick and the NBU copper-zinc deposit in Northwest Ontario. In 1977, Mr. Corman moved to San Francisco where he participated in the exploration and development of the Roosevelt Geothermal Field in Southwest Utah.

In 1995, Mr. Corman merged his exploration company with Western Copper Holdings, a subsidiary of Teck Corporation, where he became President. In 1998, Western Copper Holdings and Teck discovered the San Nicholas massive sulfide deposit in Central Mexico. In the early 2000s, Western Copper Holdings acquired all of Kennecott’s exploration properties in Mexico, including an early stage exploration project named Peñasquito which soon became the main focus of the company. In 2006, Western Copper Holdings (renamed Western Silver) was acquired by Glamis Gold for $1.3 billion and, later that year, Glamis Gold and Goldcorp (now Newmont Corporation) merged. Peñasquito was brought into production in 2010 and today is one of Newmont Corporation’s flagship assets. Concurrently with the acquisition by Glamis Gold, Western Copper Corporation was spun out, being renamed Western Copper and Gold Corporation in 2011. Today, Western owns the Casino Project in the Yukon, which is one of the world’s largest copper-gold deposits and is slated to become Canada’s premier copper-gold mine. The Company recently announced Rio Tinto Canada as a strategic investor.

In honour of Mr. Corman’s great contributions to mining over the past several decades, the Company’s Board of Directors is pleased to share that it will be contributing an initial $150,000 to an annual scholarship in Mr. Corman’s name to help students in the Yukon acquire degrees in Engineering and Science.

“Over the last 50 years, I have met and worked with a group of extraordinary people who have dedicated their lives to the mining industry,” said Mr. Corman. “The decision to retire was not an easy one for me to make. I am now looking forward to a less stressful life on the sunny coast of British Columbia. I am extremely honoured that the Board of Directors have chosen to initially fund in my name a scholarship to help students in the Yukon to acquire degrees in Engineering and Science. It is my hope that this fund will grow along with the development of the Casino Project and become a major contributor to the education of students in the Yukon.”
